Both men played poor billiards and "goose eggs" were frequently recorded. The feature of the night's play came in the fifteenth inning, when Schaffer got the balls near the top cushion and held them there for a quarter of an hour. He drove the red and white alternately when it was necessary to send them outside the balk line and frequently made gathering shots with great precision. The result of this brilliant work was the addition of 132 to his big lead.

HE SWILLS IT

Does Leslie Bush, Asst. School Land Commissioner, of Guthrie, Oklahoma.

Territory of Oklahoma, ss. County of Logan.

Feb. 13, 1896.

Personally appeared before me, Wm. Blincoe, notary public, in and for said county, on the above date, Leslie Bush, who first being duly sworn deposes and says: That for about three years prior to September, 1895, his hair continually dropped out until he had become almost bald; that in September, 1895, he began to take the free treatment for baldness furnished by the Knowledge Dandruff company at their office in Guthrie, Okla.; that in a short time thereafter his hair ceased to fall out and began to thicken; that he continued the treatment daily for thirty days, and that since that time his hair has continued to thicken and grow very fast, until now it is almost as thick and vigorous as it ever was.

LESLIE BUSH.

Subscribed and sworn to before me this 13th day of February, 1896.

(Seal.) W. M. BLINCOE.

My commission expires August 24th, 1896.

Nothing is impossible. A few weeks ago you would have looked at the idea of taking a photograph through a brick wall—yet this very thing is being done repeatedly. You doubt that anything can grow hair on bald heads. Why? Simply because you have never seen it done, or because, perhaps, you have been deceived time and time again by those who claim to cure baldness. Mr. Bush, whose affidavit is given above, had no more faith than you have. His experience is only one in a thousand.

You need not take any word alone. Write for the Dandruff Herald and read what hundreds say.

Ladies, if you would have beautiful hair—soft and clinging as the snowflakes, fluffy and most luxuriant—then use DANDRUFF—If once, then all ways.

This will give the Illinois Central the entrance to St. Louis. The Illinois Central has agreed to pay a dividend of 24 per cent per annum to the stockholders of the Cairo Short line company.

NEEDS NO LYNCHING

ED. POLEN, DOUBLY A MURDERER, ATTEMPTS SUICIDE.

Blows Out the Brains of Wife and Mother-in-Law as the Outcome of a Family Row—Starts to Run but Encounters a Freight Train Just Falling in, Thinks of a Speedy Way Out of His Horrible Predicament—Falls in Front of the Train and is Fatally Injured—Taken to Jail to Die.

Clinton, Ill., April 2.—At 4:20 o'clock this afternoon this city was thrown into the wildest excitement by a double murder and attempted suicide. Ed Polen, formerly employed at the shops of the Illinois Central railroad, murdered his wife, formerly Miss Myrtle Green, and his mother-in-law, Mrs. McMullen, and then attempted suicide by throwing himself in front of an eastbound freight train. Jealousy is given as his reason for committing the horrible deed. Polen left here a short time ago for Creston, Ia., and had just returned with the intention of getting his wife to return. Today he went to his mother-in-law's to talk the matter over with his wife. Family quarrels were frequent and this interview resulted in a quarrel and Mrs. McMullen interfering. Polen, in his rage, grabbed a double-barreled shotgun, when both women fled and got into a neighbor's yard. Polen emptied one barrel of the gun at his wife, striking her in the head and killing her instantly. As Mrs. Polen fell forward on her face, Mrs. McMullen looked around just in time to receive the full charge of the second barrel in her face. Both women were found lying just as they fell.

Polen coolly walked a few steps, stopped, reloaded his gun and ran east to the railroad. A freight train was pulling close behind him that he dropped his gun and threw himself in front of the engine. The pilot struck him in the head inflicting injuries which are pronounced fatal. He was then lodged in jail. To-night a great crowd of citizens assembled in front of the jail, but Mayor McGill addressed them and said: Polen would die of his injuries and the crowd finally dispersed. It is rumored late tonight that Polen was taken to Decatur for safe keeping. The jail is heavily guarded and no reporters are allowed near it.

Madden a prominent citizen was fatally wounded at Concord, a little mountain town in that county, last night, by the notorious Deek gang of outlaws. Gwynne was shot down on the porch of an outlaw's house while the house was surrounded by his posse. The desperadoes then rushed from the building, shooting rapidly in every direction. Madden was shot in the arm and made his escape in the darkness. Two posses of several hundred men are now in pursuit, and old Taylor Deek, the outlaw leader, is surrounded in a swamp. If taken alive he will be lynched.

SIXTEEN INSTEAD OF FOUR

Cloudburst on the Kentucky's Headwaters Worse Than Reported.

Cincinnati, Ohio, April 2.—A special from Booneville, Ky., says: The cloud burst on Little Sexton and Buffalo creeks did more damage than at first reported. Instead of four, there were probably sixteen drowned. Sexton creek rises near Harrison Springs and is one of the feeders of the south fork of the Kentucky river. It flows in some places through deep gorges. Through these gorges the stream rushes when in flood, with the speed of a race horse and striking the bottom lands below, spreads out with wonderful rapidity. People little thought that the little brook would rise so rapidly or was capable of gathering such a volume of water. The cloud burst occurred up in the gorges, the water gathered in a moment, and the wild flood poured down in a solid wall, carrying debris and destruction in its path. Five people were drowned by the Little Sexton. Buffalo creek is even more crooked and tortuous than the Little Sexton, and by its action after the burst nine

TRAIN BROKE IN TWO

Shocking Accident With Two Fatalities on an Ohio River Bridge.

Wheeling, W. Va., April 2.—A shocking and fatal accident occurred today on the Bellaire, Baltimore and Ohio railroad bridge across the Ohio four miles below here, which cost two lives.

A freight train, westbound, with 70 workmen on board, started across the river, closely followed by a yard engine on which there were also a number of workmen going to their homes in Bellaire. When on the first span of the bridge the freight train broke in two, the caboose and three cars running back toward the approaching yard engine. The men in the caboose of the parted train realized the danger and jumped, many clinging to the iron frame work of the bridge. Frank Salzgraver and Pat Flaherty, however, commenced to climb up the ladder on the rear of the caboose but before they reached the roof the crash came and both were crushed to death in the collision with the yard engine.

Sunday Editor of the Philadelphia Times Falls Out of a Window.

Philadelphia, Pa., April 2.—Thomas Wharton, the Sunday editor of the Philadelphia Times, fell from a fourth story window of the house in which he lived, early this morning and was instantly killed. It is believed that he committed suicide. Of late other occupants had noticed that Wharton seemed to be morose. He was eccentric and made but few friends. Wharton was 37 years old and widely known. IF THEY CATCH KRASNOW

Russian Refugees in America Threaten a Supposed Traitor.

Philadelphia, April 2.—Agents of a Russian patriotic society in the east are hunting for Gregor Krasnow, who was implicated in the plot that resulted in the assassination of Czar Alexander II of Russia in 1881. Krasnow, who was then about 18 years old, was arrested at a hotel and secured his release on bail through the efforts of a friend who fled to Switzerland and soon after came to America, living in Chicago until recently. On March 16, a story was printed to the effect that he had after receiving the bounty of $10,000, offered for his number of years, applied to the Russian government for a pardon, offering to enter the secret service at St. Petersburg. The Russian government, however, refused to grant the pardon. The principal motive for this action is said to be Krasnow's desire to obtain a portion of the fortune of his father, a wealthy Russian, who died soon after the assassination of the czar. Krasnow was also interested in the assassination of the czar. A brother of Krasnow and three of his cousins were all hanged in the circumstances. Krasnow strongly to the sympathy of Russians in this country, and led them to supply him liberally with funds. While living in Chicago Krasnow was known as H. M. Shub. He was employed by Mayer, Engel & Co., wholesale clothing store, twelve years, and afterwards engaged in the clothing manufacturing business in that city. In order to deceive the Russian police, a circumstantial story of his death and burial was printed in a paper published in Geneva by the Russian authorities. In 1883 the Russian authorities learned that he was still alive. The famous detective in St. Petersburg came to this country in search of the refugee, stimulated by an offer of a reward of $10,000. Krasnow, however, was not found. He was outwitted by Krasnow and his friends, and he returned to St. Petersburg without his man.

When Krasnow returned to Chicago recently he was followed to New York, where he was seen to meet a well known Chicago merchant, with whom he had been on intimate terms of friendship, and received a sum of money from him. It is believed that it was on the advice of this gentleman that Krasnow left Chicago.

The agents of the Russian societies, some of whom were in this city today, are determined to prevent Krasnow from returning to Russia if possible. They say that if he can be found and sent to the czar's secret service, his friends here will provide liberally for him, but if he is determined to betray those who befriended him he will have a cruel and bloody end.

On March 3 Krasnow eluded the men who were tracking him to New York and he is believed to have gone to Washington for the purpose of communicating with the Russian authorities. They think he will not dare to attempt to sail from New York, but will instead board a European steamer either at Baltimore or Philadelphia. Meanwhile, a close watch is being kept for him in the cities named.

Paine's celery compound is not one of the many sarsaparillas for nervines that manage to make themselves public, as far as their mere names go, but without making themselves known to suffering people by actual use. Paine's celery compound has been used and enthusiastically recommended by the most judicious, considerate, careful men and women in every city in the United States, as an absolute cure for nervous debility and exhaustion, neurasthenia, melancholia, hysteria, headache, dyspepsia, rheumatism, kidney trouble, and all blood diseases.
